SATURDAY MORNING, AUG. 12, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT, SAMUEL J. TILDEN THOMAS A. HENDRICKS,

DAVID C. ROSE.

GENERAL Crook's force, now probably marching in quest of the Indians, is said to be in high condition, both horses and men. Meantime a large fresh trail of Sioux has been found, with such quantities of picked dog carcasses as suggest a scarcity of food among them. A rumor of a reverse to General Terry is of no value except to raise groundless

County elections were held on Monday in Kentucky. All the counties reported show Democratic majorities, except Boyd. In the Congressional election in the Louisville district, Henry Watterson, Democrat, was elected by an overwhelming majority over Heady, Independent. Heady received only a few scattering votes. Henry Clay was defeated for Prosecuting Attorney by a

The leading Independent papers-such as the New York Herald, Philadelphia Times, Springfield (Mass) Re-publican and New York Sun—speak in high terms of Gov. Tilden's letter of occeptance pronouncing it statesman-ike, manly and fearless. A number of petty partisan sheets of the Republican party speak disparagingly of it and talk about its!"weakness and incongruities." "Shoo, fly, don't bother me!"

That's a pretty good sized bill but as the fine was $100 per oath the man only had to swear eight hundred times to owe the $80,000. If we had that law here and the property of its violators didn't run out, the national debt could be paid in a few months from the fines. We know one man who would be bankrupted in less than an hour and be olds considerable property, too.

THE ALABAMA ELECTION.—The returns from the State election which took place in Alabama on Tuesday show a clean sweep by the democrats. Gov. Houston and the entire democratic ticket was elected by a majority of more than 40,000. The democrats have also an overwhelming majority in both branches of the Legislature, thus insuring the return of a democrat to the U. S. Senate in the place of Senator Goldthwaite dency.
On the whole, and in every respect, Spring. The Congressional districts have all gone democratic. Not a disturbance of any kind occurred, and, left to the exercise of their own will unstates and public confidence in to the exercise of their own will ungiarded by republican emissaries, the negroes voted the democratic ticket in large numbers, thus helping to carry the State in the interest of law and good government. Being "the first gun of the campaign," the election in Alabama

The Democratic Candidates.

The long-looked for letters of the Democratic candidates made their appearance last Saturday. Gov. Tilden's letter formally accepts the nomination for Vice-President and expresses his hearty and perfect endorsement of which he shirks, and with all of the principles of power and, having of which he shirks, and with all of the principles of power and, having the leading questions of which he shirks, and with all of the principles of power and, having the principles of power and power

Such a letter could not be prepared in a few hours, and ampered as he was with business engagements the delay in issuing his let-Democracy and the friends of reform re well satisfied that they have not The letter being too voluminous for us to publish it in full in our columns we give a synopsis prepared by the N. Y. Sun, which comprehends, in a few words, the leading points of the letter.

He first touches upon the question of retrenchment and reform in the administration, showing the evils of the extravagance and wastefulness that have made necessary the enormous taxation by which the country is depressed, and pointing to the struggle in the House to reduce expenditures under the menaces of the Senate and the Execution. He must depressed a practically with menaces of the Senate and the Execu-tive. He would deal practically with this matter also, and proposes an mend-ment to the Constitution by which the evils of the existing system may be emedied.

He next adverts to the Southern He next adverts to the Southern question in words of wisdom and sound seense. He would seek to establish a a cordial fraternity among men of every race, now united in one destiny; and he promises, as Chief Magistrate to exercise the powers conferred by the laws and Constitution, to protect all citizens, whatever their former condition, in every political and personal right. right.

Then comes the chief feature of his

Then comes the chief feature of his message—an elaborate discussion of the financial question in its various aspects. It is not only comprehensive and lucid, but bristles with practical suggestions for the establishment of practical financial reforms. He holds that resumption is not difficult, shows the methods and means of resumption, indicates the time for resumption, and points out the preparations that ought to be made for resumption. "The proper time for resumption." preparations that ought to be made for resumption. "The proper time for resumption," says he, "is the time when wise preparations shall have ripened into a perfect ability to accomplish the object with a certainty and ease that will inspire confidence and encourage the reviving of business. The earliest time in which such a result can be brought about is the best." A vague idea of distress is often associated with the process of resumption, but Governor Tilden shows by a few words that this is unfounded. The Government is the sole delinquent, and has only to make good its own promises, when the banks surrounded. The Government is the sole delinquent, and has only to make good its own promises, when the banks can take care of themselves without distressing anybody. He does not think it a work of difficulty for the Government to make the coin now in the Treasury available for the objects of a reserve, to gradually strengthen and enlarge that reserve, and to provide for such other exceptional demands for coin as may arise. The best resource, as a provision for reserves and redemption, is a reduction of the expenses of the Government below its income: for that imposes no new charge on the people. The specific measures and the actual date of resumptive legislation are matters of detail, having reference to ever changing conditions, and belong to the domain of practical administration statesmanship. The fixing of a definite date for resumption, without preparation for it is a sham; and the Governor is evidently in perfect accord with public service exists not for the business and benefit of the whole people, but for the interest of the officeholders.

The other evil is the organization of the official class into a hold of publical. official class into a body of political official class into a body of political mercenaries governing the caucuses and dictating the nominations of their own party, and attempting to carry the elections of the people by undue influence, and by immense corruption the funds systematically collected from the salaries or fees of officeholders. Mr. Tilden indicates the steps that must be taken to make reform in this branch effective.

form, he proceeds to tell how that reform should be brought about:

The first work of reform must evidently be the restoration of the normal operation of the Constitution of the United States, with all its amendments. The necessities of war cannot be pleaded in a time of peace; the right of local lost but rather gained by the delay.— self-government as guaranteed by the Constitution of the Union must be every-where restored, and the centralized (almost personal) imperialism which has been practised must be done away or the first principles of the republic will be lost.

THE VINANCIAL QUESTION is handled in such a manner as must disappoint his adversaries who had hoped to find a great difference of opinion between him and Gov. Tilden on ion between him and Gov. Tilden on this subject. He advocates a gradual this subject. He advocates a gradual return to specie payments to be accom-plished as speedily as the business and commercial interests of the country will allow. On this subject he says: Our inancial system of expedients must be reformed. Gold and silver are the real financial system of expedients must be reformed. Gold and silver are the real standard of values, and our national currency will not be a perfect medium of exchange until it shall be convertible at the pleasure of the holder. As I have heretofore said, no one desires a return to Specie Payments more earnestly than I do; but I do not believe that it will or can be reached in har-mony with the interests of the people by artificial measures for the contraction of the currency, any more than I believe that wealth or permanent pros-perity can be created by an inflation of the currency. The laws of finance canthe currency. The laws of manne cannot be disregarded with impunity. The financial policy of the Government, if, indeed, it deserves the name of policy at all, has been in disregard of those laws, and therefore has disturbed commercial and business confidence, as well as hindered a return to Specie Paynents.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXTRAVAGANCE.

The extravagant expenditures of the The extravagant expenditures of the administration are severely condemned and reform advocated: The burdens of the people must also be lightened by a great change in our system of public expenses. The profligate expenditure which increased taxation from five dollars per capita in 1860 to eighteen dollars in 1870 tells its own story of our need of fiscal reform.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

The civil service reform plank of t The civil service reform plank of the St. Louis platform deprecating the wholesale removal of men from office on account of political opinions meets with the writer's hearty approval and he favors the retention in office of men of "tried integrity and proved ability," no matter what their political opinions or autocadent.

After expressing his disapproval of governmental interference with the public schools for political purposes he closes his letter with a declaration of an entire his letter with a declaration of an entire agreement with the principles of the party platform. He says:

It will be seen, gentlemen, that I am in entire accord with the platform of the convention by which I have been nominated as a candidate for the office of Vice-President of the United States. Permit me, in conclusion, to express my satisfaction at being associated with a candidate for the Presidency who is first among his equals as a representaernor, having proved more unpopular with, and less acceptable to, the masses of the independent voters of the Hoosier State than they had thought it would, that gentleman has been induced to withdraw from the ticket "for the sake of harmony in the party" and to escape the defeat which he foresaw was certain, and the central committee has substituted for him the Hoa. Benj. Harrison, grandson of the old hero of Tippecanee, (and Tyler, too.) who has formally signified his acceptance, and the ticket is filled once more.

Mr. Tilden makes some excellent observations on the means of relief to existing business distress. He desires that the subject shall be practically dealt with. The public mind will no longer accept shams. It has suffered enough from illusions.

The last theme of his message is civil service reform, and he handles it like a man of business and knowledge. He points out the two great evils in the Government service. One is the prevalent and demoralizing notion that the mounts paid Mr. Tilden of the public service exists not for the husing the service walent and demoralizing notion that the mounts paid Mr. Tilden of religible service were for sneeding work done and vices were for specific work done, and his charges were less than they might justly have been made. ### Maryland Affairs.

An event which has greatly excited the people of Smith's Island, in Chesapeake Bay, off Somerset county, occurred last week. The Crisfield Leader gives the following: While S T. Dize and wife were attending some person or persons entered their house and took a pocket book containing $15 in money and a note of $250, two guns—single and double barrel—several articles of cloth-ing and two little boys, aged respectively charge of the house, one of whom was a child of Mr. Dize, while the other was an orphan boy, who formerly resided in Baltimore. Mr. Dize's three boats were also carried away from his landing. No one can conjectur what motive the robbers had in taking the boys with them, unless it was to prevent them giving information that would lead to their (the robbers) arrest. Immediately after the robbery was discovered several canoes, well started in different directions quest of the desperadoes, but as yet they have invulnerable, declares that one recently met with a serious accident in the suburbs of LaCrosse. He was walking along the railroad when a freight train came along. The unfortunate man was struck by the engine and knocked directly across the track, some fifty-three cars passing over him. He was then tumbled down a bank 800 feet high, over stones and stumps, and just as he get to the edge of the river he struck against a pile driver that was at work, and, his laying on the top of the pile for a minute or two, the ponderous hammer descended, striking him on the check, brusing his face somewhat. cheek, brusing his face somewhat.— The shock rolled him into the river just as an up river packet was passing, and by some mishap the unfortunate man was entangled in one of the wheels, and whirled round and round for an hour and a half before he was discovered and released. He was picked up nearly senseless and removed to the cabin, where his wants were supplied. After he had eaten a hearty meal he was approached by the captain, who asked:

"Is there anything you would like

"Is there anything you would like to have?

"No, no,' replied the canvasser, there is nothing but this—"

"What! what!" ejecuiated the captain, "what is it?

The book agent smiled sweetly as he produced a subscription list and said:

"Subscribe for that beautiful book entitled 'The Poissened Gum Drop, or the Candy Woman's Revenge.'"

Tub Campaion Opened.—If you had been around the big Great Western freight depot on Atwater street at noon yesterday, says the Detroit Free Press, you would have seen the campaign open. Said a man sitting on a door step to a man leaning against a lamp-post:

"What do you think hof the nomination hof Aze?"

"I think he ought to eat you," was the reply. "His name isn't Aze any more than your name is Mud."

"Then what is hit?

"The right name of the Cincinnatic candidate is Hazon Wheeler."

That was the commencement of a rough and tumble fight which covered half a block and destroyed the peace of mind of a score of men. They might have been fighting yet had not an old man with gray hair announced that both were wrong. He said he had seen the names of the candidates on a flag up town, and they were "Whaze and Heeler."

Wasting Money on Heathers.—"I should like to jine some good Sunday School," said a doleful looking boy on the steps of a Chicago church, the other Sabbath morning.
"Would you?" inquired a good hearted man standing near, "then come right into my class."
"What do you do in there?" inquired

"What do you do in there?" inquired
the boy, brightening up.
"Oh, we read and sing and do many other interesting things."
"Do you take up collections?" further quiszed the boy.

THE MOTHER OF TWINS IN A QUAN-DARY -The mother of two sons, twins, met one of thers in a field one morning. "Which of you two boys am I speak-ing to?" asked the mother, "is it you youa brother?"

"Why do you ask?" inquired the lad

"Because, if it's your brother I will box his ears," snswered the mother.
"It is not my brother, it is I," said

"Then your brother is wearing your coat, for yours had a hole in it."
"No, mother, I am wearing my own

"Good heavens?" cried the mother, looking at him intently, "you are your brother, after all!"

How one disagreeable man can throw an unpleasant shadow over a meeting! A lecturer once remarked that when the dark storm-clouds gather, and by the bursting of the tempest we are deprived of some trivial pleasure, let us draw consolation from the thought that far off, in some dry and burning desert, parched travelers are thanking God for the rain. "But." says the disagreeable the rain. "But," says the disagreeable man, "how do we know its raining over in the desert at the same time?

The new belt for the ladies is said to be made in clasps, four of which go around the waist. It will be difficult, however, to improve upon the style of belt, which is made in the shape of the coat sleeve and has an arm inside of it We have observed, however, that this kind usually requires more than four Independent in everything! Neutral in Nothing A little boy, in a Denver Sunday School, was asked by his teacher if he had learned anything during the past week. 'Oh, yes,' said he. 'What is it you have learned?' 'Never to lead a deuce when you've got an ace back of it,' was the reply.

Valuable Real Estate IN SASSAFRAS, KENT Co., MD., AT PRIVATE SALE.

By virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court This property consists of a large brick front and a frame back building two stories high, containing nine rooms in all, with a good cellar under the main building. A good pump of water at the door. There is also a good STABLE and Carriage House and a lot containing one acre and thirty-seven perches. The location is desirable as the home of a Physician, as the death of Dr. Clift, the former owner, leaves the whole neighborhood without one.

This property will be sold upon very reasonable terms, and those wishing to examine the property or obtain further information as to price and terms, will call on or address R. S. GRIFFITH, Adm'r, apr 22-tf Sassafras, Kent county, Md.
